

The influence of the time on the choice of job- example of two generations

Chi-Chung Hsiung¹, Wei-Han Wu², Yao-Jin Huang³

¹Department of Management Science, ROC Military Academy

Abstract

From the agricultural era of the 1950s, and then slowly moving into the ten major constructions projects of 1970s, and finally to the current era of information explosion, under social and economic conditions, this represents Taiwan's economic evolution. The choice of job of every person alters according to different backgrounds and different values. Therefore, we chose X and Y generations of Taiwan as a sample to investigate the changes in time and society, moreover to investigate how differently X and Y generations choose their jobs under different time and different values. This study is mainly to discuss the impact of changes in Taiwan society on the employment through the collect the information of each generation

Key words : Time, job selection, values, generation differences